BULK MILK COOLING TANKS

By R. H. Martin, Jr., Rural Representative, Virginia Electric & Power Company

Interest is growing rapidly among the dairy farmers in the use of bulk milk handling equipment.

The bulk milk cooling tank came to northern Virginia about four years ago and now approximately 40% of the total amount of milk supplied to the Washington market comes through cold-wall storage tanks.

There are many advantages in the use of the bulk cooling tank. Rapid cooling makes for low bacteria count and a better quality of milk, which means better prices where premiums are paid for low bacteria. The reduction of spillage is an important saving. The milk sticking to the sides of the cans is also a loss and is high in butterfat content. This is reduced to a minimum with the use of the bulk tank. Other big advantages are that it saves labor, eliminates re-tinning of the cans and replacement costs.

The complete system consists of a pipe line milker and a bulk cooling tank. However, farmers may make the changeover gradually. The pipe line milker may be installed and used with the present can system or the bulk tank may be installed and the milk poured from the milking pails directly into the tank.

In some areas there is a marketing problem. Some farmers have installed the bulk tank and are marketing the milk in cans in lieu of the bulk pick-up system which is not available as yet in all areas. This system of marketing, however, is growing in popularity.

Interested readers may contact their local power representative for a more complete description of the bulk milk tank and the advantages involved.

Coastal Bermuda Plots Are Set Up

A closer look at how Coastal Bermuda grass behaves in Virginia will be possible now that some 39 demonstration plots have been set up in 22 counties in southside and eastern Virginia, say agronomists at V. P. I.

The plots will give farmers, professional agricultural workers and others interested a chance to study the performance of Coastal Bermuda under many different conditions in the state.

In addition to the demonstration plots, experimental work with the grass has been expanded. Experiments have been underway at Warsaw and Petersburg for two years. New tests are being established at Charlotte Court House, Chatham, Orange, and at the main experiment station at V. P. I. Data from the tests, and inormation from the demonstration should give a good indication of whether or not the grass should be included in Virginia's pasture program.

Back in the 1920's, it is estimated a housewife had to spend 5½ hours' kitchen time preparing a day's food for a family of four. Today, she can do it in 1½ hours, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

[illegible] to get over on US 301 [illegible] in the afternoon. They say [illegible] a better chance to get a [illegible] place to roost if you are on [illegible] highway, and from all I [illegible] 301 is the top route right [illegible] north - south traffic. We [illegible] 301 deep in North Carolina, [illegible] minutes we saw bill[illegible] advertising a stopping place [illegible] name of "South of the [illegible] Eventually, from the mile[illegible], we gathered that this [illegible] was within inches of [illegible] North Carolina becomes South [illegible]. I always stop at AAA [illegible]sorts, and we passed by lots [illegible], because we had made up [illegible] that this highly advertised [illegible] "South of the Border" [illegible] our spot for the night. We [illegible] about 5:30 P. M. It was in [illegible] although such a place fills up [illegible] hurry at twilight approaches. [illegible]h of the Border."

[illegible] glamorous name. And when [illegible] there, we found it that way, [illegible] Brightleaf went in to make [illegible]servation for a party of four. [illegible]om now on what we have to [illegible] be in comment about as fine [illegible] court as ever we have seen: [illegible] have seen them all over.

[illegible]ems that five years ago, [illegible] opened his spot. January. [illegible]e first had an eating place, [illegible]m counter stools and one [illegible]se, and a menu with six kinds [illegible]wiches. Today I would gath[illegible] he has something worth [illegible]illion in the long green.

[illegible] facilities include:

[illegible]erfect restaurant, open 24 [illegible]round the clock, with three [illegible]al dining rooms as well as a [illegible]counter section and lobby. The [illegible] Room, the Sombrero Room, [illegible] Aztec Room. We ate in the [illegible] Room, a fabulously large [illegible]utiful dining spot, featuring [illegible] of the Border" decor.

[illegible] adjoining is a spacious Gift [illegible] with one of the largest col[illegible]ns of gift items in the South [illegible]s more than a thousand [illegible] from forty countries. It oper[illegible]e a supermarket . . you just [illegible] around and pay as you come [illegible]ou sell yourself.

[illegible] the grandest portion of this [illegible]ment is the Motor Court, [illegible] of the Border. It opened Feb[illegible]1954, with 40 deluxe units and [illegible] up to around 80 units. In [illegible]o years in the planning stage [illegible] do not hestitate to say—as an [illegible]mmed motor court guest—that [illegible] one of the nation's best. The [illegible]ms are large: 17 feet by 17 feet. [illegible] a special ladies boudoir as [illegible] is tiled bath with tub. There [illegible]ctric heat, wall to wall carpet, [illegible] television in the rooms [illegible]conditioned. And a private car [illegible]or your unit, with private en[illegible]ance on the opposite side of [illegible]nit another entrance to a pri[illegible]patio. All units are sound-[illegible]d. Ceiling and roof deck are [illegible]fiber—acoustical, insulated and [illegible]proof. The court has its own [illegible] supply, rated at 300 gallons [illegible]minute. There is a service spot [illegible]stant supply of ice, etc. Pav[illegible]ways go through the central [illegible] and there are live and gentle [illegible] for the children to ride for [illegible] and all manner of swings and [illegible]ground equipment. Nothing ever [illegible] you get service around the [illegible]. The court has its own laun[illegible] on the premises. There is a [illegible]board court. In the court[illegible]are four 200-year old water [illegible] and Hazel did not phase them. [illegible] are numerous 100-year old [illegible]olic trees, and an assortment [illegible] 12 types of camellias, yucca [illegible]dogwood, etc.

[illegible]ow I should say a word about [illegible] menu. For breakfast it starts [illegible]spring: Home was never like [illegible]Eggheads, goose eggs, and [illegible] a dozen raw eggs at 1.65, [illegible]ger by the carload. The dinner [illegible] so clever they sell the menu [illegible] as a souvenir for two bits. It [illegible]. If you think this menu is [illegible] wait until you get the check! [illegible] features Charleston She-Crab [illegible], Swampwater Bullion, Con[illegible] style chicken, free alka[illegible]—why go on—the place has [illegible]ality, and after a long day's [illegible] that counts. And so I say that [illegible] of the Border" is a perfect [illegible]ous at the end of your day's [illegible] and the rates are well in line [illegible] the offering. Remember: US [illegible]aches across the line into [illegible] Carolina. (What did the [illegible]overnor of South Carolina say to [illegible] Governor of North Carolina? "I [illegible]ope we'rta meet at the borda."

Evergreen Shooting In Court Tomorrow

APPOMATTOX H. S. SENIORS TAKE IN NATION'S CAPITAL CITY

Above: Appomattox High School Senior class is shown on the steps of the nation's capital in Washington, D. C. In the center of the group is Representative W. M. Abbitt, who had the local seniors as luncheon guests during their class tour last week-end. The seniors reported a happy and educational week-end.

Arrangements were virtually complete today for the Appomattox Circuit Court to meet its Friday date for trial resulting from the widely-publicized shooting spree at Evergreen on the night of February 26, when two men fell dead and the countryside was thrown into panic from as yet unexplained motives.

A jury has been summoned from Cumberland County to hear the case of Commonwealth vs Frank Mayberry. Mayberry, 48, is accused of shooting to death his brother-in-law, Jack Tucker, and then shooting Dr. David A. Christian, III, popular young Appomattox physician, who had gone to the Evergreen home on an errand of mercy.

The case is heralded as one of the most sensational ever to be tried here. Arrangements are being made for a large press coverage of the trial. The opening day is expected to be occupied with selection of a jury. The jury will be quartered in Lynchburg at nights during the trial.

Commonwealth's Attorney George F. Abbitt, Jr. will be assisted in the prosecution by his brother, Representative Watkins M. Abbitt.

The court-appointed attorneys for the defense are Barry Wall, Jr. and W. F. Watkins, Jr., both of Farmville.

There are reports that the prosecution plans to go up with the charge of shooting to death of Dr. Christian first.

There was no indication that Mayberry's attorneys would ask for a postponement of the trial. The court had granted their request for a jury from a county other than Appomattox.

The tragedy on the night of February has attracted nation-wide publicity. The defendant was finally arrested after an extended gun battle with a posse of state and county officers, being apprehended after receiving slight wounds, and after having held off the posse from the home and garage of the Evergreen residence.

Tucker fell first, and Dr. Christian was killed by gunshot as he approached the residence after a mercy call.

Await Release Of Vaccine

The next step in the anti-polio inoculation program in Virginia has reached a state of watchful waiting.

The big questions are:

1. When will Virginia get enough vaccine for the second shots?

2. When can second-shot clinics be scheduled?

3. Will most public schools be closed for the session before the vaccine arrives?

Virginia health officials do not have the answers to these questions. Some 175,000 first and second grade pupils in the state, including over 400 in Appomattox County have received the first shots, and a second had been expected before the end of the school term.

In the face of current uncertainty as to when vaccine will be available, the state is merely marking time, but maintaing readiness to set up the schedule quickly.

Governor Stanley has declared the state will cooperate "in any reasonable" program of the federal government for distributing the vaccine to low income children.

Reason for the uncertainty is the delay in knowing how soon the supplier to Virginia will have approved vaccine ready. There has been some indication that it will be after June 1. The state does not have enough vaccine to undertake the second shot distribution. A new batch of vaccine is in process of being made, but it may require another three weeks, and then it will have to get approval and it will take added time for distribution.

Hearing Called For June 8 On Road at Old Court House

Pythium Found In Some Tobacco

Pythium, a fungus disease of tobacco, has been found on one farm, Jim Smith, County Agent, announced this morning.

To some growers this may appear to be a new disease, however, it occurs frequently whenever conditions are ideal.

It affects the newly transplanted plants causing the plant to rot or slough off at the ground level. In some cases the roots may appear discolored. It is caused by a fungus very similar to the blackshank fungus. The weather for the past ten days has been ideal for the organism to work. With the coming of warm weather it can be expected to disappear. Plants should be reset, but not in the identical spot (as the diseased plant). There is no known treatment or resistant variety, but occurs when seasons and conditions are ideal.

Smith stated that there was no cause for alarm but that those finding plants affected should recognize the disease and understand its nature.

Beasley's Cities Service Has "Grand Opening"

Beasley's Cities Service Station will have a "grand opening" here this week-end. Grover "Junior" Beasley is proprietor of this station.

A hearing will be held here, at the high school auditorium on June 8, regarding State Highway Department proposals to abandon a portion of Primary Route 24 at Old Appomattox Court House. The hearing is the result of considerable local opposition to closing the section of road. Upon completion of a by-pass routing east of the Appomattox National Historical Park, the state proposed to abandon the former route. which ran through the historic village. In fact, the surfacing had been torn up, when local protests caused the matter to be re-opened. The hearing on June 8 is for the purpose of giving all parties a chance to be heard on the matter.
